

Study Tour in Vietnam

12 NUGELP students participated in a study tour in Vietnam from September 4 to 11. They visited JICA, ADB (Asian Development Bank) and World Bank offices, and met with the experts in Vietnam. In addition, they divided themselves into 2 different groups based on their focus – Water Environment and Urban Transportation, and conducted on-site research in JICA project sites that they visited during their stay. After coming back to Japan, they created policy proposal based on their research outcome. The trip was an ideal opportunity for participants to be able to apply their knowledge from classroom into more practical cases.

Report Presentation of the Study Tour in Vietnam

On October 7, we had the report presentation of the study tour in Vietnam, and 12 students who joined the trip shared their experiences with their fellow students and instructors. Students not only talked about what they have seen/heard in Vietnam, but also presented their policy proposals on Vietnamese urban environment, including water environment and urban transportation.
