

JICA Dialogue Program: Regional Development by Sustainable Use of Biodiversity (1)

From October 2 to November 3, NUGELP Student, Hoang participated in a group training ‘Regional Development by Sustainable Use of Biodiversity’ at JICA Chubu. She took lectures on biodiversity with other JICA trainees from Asia and South America, where lecturers vary from governmental/municipal organizations, universities and international organizations. She also had opportunities to visit related sites such as SATOYAMA in Ishikawa Prefecture. Since the topic of the training is also related to her master thesis on biodiversity, she was able to have made the most out of her GRI experience.
