

NUGELP Workshop in Manila, Philippines

On November 8, NUGELP hosted a workshop for international cooperation in training environmental leaders in Manila, Philippines. Experts from educational organizations such as University of the Philippines and De La Salle University, as well as governmental organizations, including Department of Environment and Natural Resources and Department of Interior and Local Government, attended the workshop to discuss human resources development in the areas of environment and civil engineering in the Philippines. We also had a working dinner after the workshop to encourage networking between experts in Japan and the Philippines. NUGELP hopes to have more and more events like this for an active exchange of ideas in international arena.

