

Overseas Training on Global Environmental Leaders in U.S.A.

From February 27 to March 4, 9 NUGELP students visited the United States as a part of Overseas Training. Students visited the World Bank Headquarters in Washington D.C. and the United Nations Headquarters in New York, and learned about the work in international organizations through discussion with the staff in these offices and exchanging their ideas. On completion of the training, students were able to widen their view as global leaders.

